the Legislature meets next year."

He said the five counties are bound by common interests.

"I feel well suited to the task of representing them in the State Senate because of my interest in the livestock business, my knowledge and experience with the legislative process, my college education in political science and my active participation on a committee concerned with the recreational development in this area," he said.

Sen. Robert F. Clyde

Senator Clyde to Seek Re-Election

20 Apr 1972

Republican State Senator Robert F. Clyde, Heber City rancher Monday announced his candidacy for re-election to the Senate District 27 seat, representing Morgan, Summit, Wasatch, Duchesne, Uintah and Daggett counties.

"U. S. Supreme Court decisions on legislative apportionment have stripped rural Utah of all but token representation," the Republican state senator said. "My primary interest, therefore, is to give my constituency a more meaningful and effective voice in state government."

"I believe my past experience with the legislative process and my lifelong interest in the problems of rural areas are important qualification," he added.

Senator Clyde expressed his appreciation to the citizens living in the district for their past support.

Senator Clyde has spent six years in the Utah State House of Representatives and six years in the Utah Senate. He is presently chairman of the Senate Standing Committee on State Affairs. He is also a member of the Constitutional Revision Commission.

He is married to the former Lynette Madsen and they are the parents of seven children.
